The title of the episode, ' Service of all the Dead ' probably alludes to a poem by D.H. Lawrence with the same title and in another Lawrence poem, ' All Souls ' the first line contains the words, 'service of all the dead'. SERVICE OF ALL THE DEAD. Between the avenues of cypresses, All in their scarlet cloaks, and surplises

Inspector Morse: Service of All the Dead (1987) - Cast ...

Service of all the Dead is a rather ridiculous story that doesn't seem to have the thrill of most of the Morse franchise, even if the conclusion to the case is rather good. As usual, John Thaw and Kevin Whately put in cherished performances, but it isn't enough to take away from the fact that Service of all the Dead is a slightly weak and over ...

Morse investigates murder on hallowed ground. A quiet country church is an unlikely setting for the killing, and a Vicar and his voluntary helpers are the unlikely suspects. Among them is Ruth Rawlinson, whom Morse is attracted to. Then it appears that a serial killer is at work. Unfortunately, Ruth is having an affair with Harry Josephs, the killer.
